Chef Cindy Wolf Tells Journey Story at Veronica "Roni" Chenowith Activity Center in Fallston

(Bel Air, MD) - - On Thursday, June 7, Cindy Wolf, award-winning executive chef, told her journey story from the low-country cuisine of Charleston to the high-end fine dining of France. Over 160 attendees learned about Chef Cindy Wolf's story, A Female's Journey through the World of Food with Executive Chef and Restaurateur Cindy Wolf, from two ends of the food spectrum and her success in a male-dominated world.

Cindy Wolf is the executive chef at Charleston and was a 2006 and 2008 James Beard Foundation finalist for Best Chef, Mid-Atlantic. Chef Wolf's cuisine is backed by French fundamentals and grounded in preparations that emphasize the natural flavors of the very finest regional products.

"We were thrilled to have Chef Cindy Wolf in Harford County as she explained her journey becoming a world renowned restaurateur," stated Elizabeth Hendrix, Director of the Harford County Department of Community Services. "Her humor and personal accounts of her exploration in the industry made for an evening full of laughter and intrigue," continued Hendrix.

Journey Stories is part of The Museum on Main Street, a collaboration between the Smithsonian Institution and the Maryland Humanities Council. The exhibition and accompanying programs are offered to the public through a partnership between the Harford County Department of Community Services and Harford County Public Library.
